MORE ROOSEVELTS RUSH TO SON JIM'S BEDSIDE

Increasingly concerned about the condition of James Roosevelt, his grandmother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, and his brothers, Franklin, Jr., and John, gathered anxiously in Boston today.

Result of the family conclave here was a decision that "Grammy" Roosevelt and Franklin, Jr., would join President Roosevelt tonight at Hyde Park, N. Y. They planned tentatively to accompany the President on his trip by special train to James' bedside at St. Mary's hospital, Rochester, Minn., where James will undergo a major surgical operation on Monday.

Mrs. Betsy Cushing Roosevelt, James' wife, reached the hospital in Rochester today, after racing half across the continent from Rye Beach, N. H., and Boston by auto, airplane and train.

She told the Boston Evening American by long-distance telephone:

"I'll stay right with Jimmy until the operation is over and he's out of danger.

"I left the children in Framingham, but I'm not worried about them, for my mother will be with them.

"So far as Jimmy's condition is concerned, I'm afraid I can't tell you any more than what the doctors say in their bulletins.

PASSES GOOD NIGHT

"I've just arrived here at the hospital, and they tell me Jimmy spent a good night and is comfortable and cheerful."

Also at James' bedside today was his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Like her daughter-in-law, she planned to remain until after the operation. The President also will stay there until the surgeons finish.

Center of the Boston gathering of the Roosevelt clan was "Grammy" Roosevelt.

She came by automobile from Campobello Island, N. B., the Roosevelt summer home, staying over night at the Statler Hotel.

Also from Campobello Island came Franklin, Jr., and his young wife, the former Ethel duPont.

FAMILY WORRIED

They spent the night at Nahant as guests of Mrs. F. Haven Clark, mother of John's bride of last June, Mrs. Anne Lindsay Clark Roosevelt.

Warrant Out in Everett For Vets' Relief Head

Francis P. Byrne, suspended Everett city soldiers' relief commissioner, was charged today with larceny of $2500.

Police, armed with a warrant, went to Byrne's home to arrest him, but were informed he has not been there "for the past two days."

Chief of Police George O. Kenney announced that Byrne, through counsel, had agreed to surrender himself at police headquarters last night, but failed to appear.

Byrne, married and the father of six children, was suspended by Mayor Frank E. Lewis a week ago when alleged discrepancies in his accounts were discovered.

The complaint on which the warrant for his arrest was issued today was signed by City Treasurer Emil Lundgren and City Auditor Arthur MacKinnon.

Shortly after his suspension a week ago it was announced Byrne was going to Chelsea Veterans' Hospital "for treatment." Hospital authorities today refused to give out any information as to whether he still is a patient there or, if not, how long ago he was discharged.

Chief Kenney said he was sending officers with the arrest warrant to the hospital in search of Byrne.

Pecora Ruling Near on Hines

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Justice Ferdinand Pecora, indicating doubts concerning parts of the prosecution's case against James J. Hines, pondered today over a decision on a defense motion to dismiss the policy racketeering indictment against the Tammany district leader.

At the end of a scorching six-hour debate on the motion the judge himself suggested, in a series of searching questions, that the evidence presented by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey might not fit the charges against Hines.

"There would be absolutely no doubt in my mind, upon this evidence," he said, "that the evidence would fit a charge of conspiracy to obstruct or pervert justice, or the due administration of the laws, like a tailored suit would fit a man for whom it was made."

But, he pointed out, Hines was not indicted on such a charge.

He also raised the issue of whether the conspiracy, which Hines is accused of having joined with "Dutch" Schultz and Schultz's gang of gunmen and gamblers, existed up until two years ago—within the time limit set by the statute of limitations.

3 Face Ouster In Lyman Probe Of Dedham Jail

Three Norfolk County officials face loss of their jobs as a result of evidence thus far obtained by State Commissioner of Corrections Arthur T. Lyman in his investigation of conditions at Dedham jail and county farm at Walpole.

Amorous advances, allegedly made to women prisoners in the jail by a guard, probably will result in the guard's discharge and in charges against another jail official.

Allegations that drinking parties have been going on at the county farm form the basis for probable discharge or forced resignation of an official there, it was stated.

NOT AMONG PRISONERS

Commissioner Lyman's investigation of conditions at the county farm, the Boston Evening American learned, thus far has shown that alleged irregularities there all have occurred among certain of the official personnel.

Commissioner Lyman is under-

Chilly? It Sure Was

The premature wintry chill which chased the mercury to a record low mark in Boston early today, precipitated snow in Maine and nipped the suburbs hereabouts with frost is due for departure within 24 hours.

The local weatherman predicted slowly rising temperatures this afternoon and slightly warmer conditions tomorrow.

A record minimum of 47 for this date, which has stood for 58 years, was outmoded at 6:30 a. m. when the silver column slumped to 44.6.

In Lexington the temperature registered 38 just before dawn and at 7 a. m. at Concord observatory it fell to 40.

Folks arising at Lubec, Me., were startled by a mantle of snow, a record early arrival of King Boreas in the down-East town.

Mother Loses Baby Battle

SALLY SIEVE

Foster-Parents Win Custody

A court ruling in Dedham today took seven-year-old Sally Rosolsky away from her mother, Mrs. Eva Antosh, 33, of Medway, who earns $19 a week, ad gave the child for adoption to Mr. and rMs. Leo Sieve, wealthy Brooklineites.

The decision was handed down by Judge Joseph H. McCoole in Dedham probate court, who two days ago heard Mrs. Antosh's plea for the child matched by protestations of love and devotion by Mr. and Mrs. Sieve.

Little Sally, it was brought out in the proceedings, has been in the custody of the State welfare department since her birth. A year and a half ago, she was taken into the Sieve home.

"I WANT MY BABY"

There, surrounded by luxury, destined for a college education and travel, clothes and all her heart may desire, she has come in the past 18 months to regard the Sieves as her parents, they told Judge McCoole, and they have come to love her as their own daughter.

Mrs. Antosh, on the other hand, sobbed—

"It isn't true I neglested Sally. I always went to se her in the welfare home when I had the carfare. But sometimes I didn't have it. I wasn't married then.

"My husband and I have scrimped and saved to get a few hundred dollars together. We have fixed up a room for Sally. Maybe it's not as fine as Mr. and Mrs. Sieve can offer, but Sally's mine—she's mine!—and I want my baby!"

DIFFICULT DECISION

Judge McCoole said, while he was still pondering his decision:

"It's the most difficult decision I have ever been called upon to make."

Today, however, he handed down his decision—against Sally's real mother and in favor of the foster-parents who took her from the home where her mother left her and who have come to love her as their own.

Justice Blind, But Love Sees

Arrested by Roxbury Crossing police to face morals charges, Walter McCormick, 27, of Cliff street, and Eleanor Horne, 18, of Crawford street, bot hRoxbury, told the court they were in love.

"We got into this mess because we were so fond of each other," McCormick pleaded with Judge Samuel S. Eisenstadt. "Can't you do something for us?"

Judge Eisenstadt pondered.

"If you got married, that would be taken into consideration in the disposition of the case," he said.

Openly overjoyed at the thought of turning from the prospect of a prison cell to that of a happy marriage, the two went to Boston City Hall, where they filed marriage intentions.

Then they started back to Roxbury, where Judge Eisenstadt said he would provide a waiver of the five-day law.

Louis' Manager Seized After Raids

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (INS)—John Roxborough, manager of worlds' heavyweight champion Joe Louis, today was ordered arrested in the aftermath of yesterday's series of raids on policy game "banks."

Others prominent in the city's Negro section were also ordered arrested.

PARIS, Sept. 9 (INS)—News reports the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are planning an early trip to the United States were denied by a spokesman today.

Farmer Wants a Wife!

She'd Win His All

By JOSEPH CARTER

CANDIA, N. H., Sept. 9—"I want a good wife."

In those five simple words are the life's need and the life's story of Joseph Cronan of Ialand road in this town, a farmer, 50 years old now, and a lonely man.

Cronan today revealed the desires of his heart, how he will give his 200-acre farm to the right woman.

Candia is a small town near Manchester, N. H.; it shelters only a few hundred people and lies high on the green, wind-swept hills.

In a single general store the townsfolk know Joe Cronan.

"A while back he ran for road agent in Candia. He knew just seven people to speak to, but he got 55 votes."

They smile and shake their heads.

Cronan was born in Boston. He went to Boston schools, Charlestown high school, and a local business college. He went into business there, and ran a meat market in East Boston years ago.

"I never got married because I was working too hard when I was young," he says.

He is a man about five feet ten inches tall, strongly built and well cared for, with gray-white hair and blue eyes.

"There are some men, you know," he says, "that women never seem to go for. I don't smoke or drink anything harder than cider and I never learned to dance, so I guess I wasn't the right kind."

JOSEPH CRONAN

FARM AMBITION

As long ago as he can remember, his ambition has been to become a farmer.

"I won a prize for sweet peas in Lynn when I was seven," he grins, "and that started me off."

He has come to love this country. The road that passes his house is no more than a lane, wide enough for a car.

"I want someone here with me. The work is hard, and it's far away. But you get paid. Maybe I'm fussy. I need good food; when I advertised for a housekeeper I had samples of bread sent in.

"I want an honest woman, who'll be a good companion. A middle-aged woman with sense.

"To her I'll give this farm, that cost $6850. I can't find her. I've spent $5000 trying, and I gave up. I hope the American can, because if they don't I won't know what to do."

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 9 (AP)—Police seized 200 pounds of raw marijuana, powerful drug, from Robert Preston, 22, of this city today, and broke up what they said was a ring which peddles the weed to addicts. Brabents died in Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford, while his wife, Isabelle, 23, cried out for him from the next room. She is in critical condition with a fractured right leg, broken wrist and internal injuries.

Harry J. Fonseca, 28, of South Second street, New Bedford, was killed when an auto which state police said he was driving ran wild on a curve in Mattapoisett, ripped 180 feet through brush and hit a tree.

He was dead on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford. Four passengers were reported dying at the same hospital. They are:

3 Stores Bombed In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9 (AP)—A bomb damaged three business houses early today—only 12 hours after a special grand jury blamed "so-called labor organizers" for more than 500 window smashings and nine bomb explosions here since January 1.

The grand jury returned 13 secret indictments, naming 50 persons it charged had preyed upon "honest union labor" and exploited the employer, resorting to price-fixing and intimidation.

Farmer Hunted As Wife Beater

MONTPELIER, Sept. 9 (AP)—Washington County police spread a drag net today for Howard Dickenson, Roxbury farmer, who fled his burning farm after allegedly throttling his wife.

Lester Gilchrist, a neighbor, said he rushed into the Dickenson house at midnight when he heard the cries of the Dickenson children. Gilchrist asserted Dickenson was attempting to choke his wife and that he knocked the husband unconscious and took the woman and children to his home. Mrs. Dickenson was in a serious condition today.

Shortly after the incident, the Dickenson farm buildings were ablaze. All were destroyed. State Fire Marshall rFank Eaton began an investigation.

Notables Honor Cardinal Hayes

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—"O God . . . command that he be received by Thy Holy angels and taken into paradise, his true country, and that as he hath believed and hoped in Thee, he may not suffer . . ."

Comforting words—simple words from an old, old book, were read from the high altar of St. Patrick's Cathedral today as the Roman Catholic Church commended the soul of Patrick Cardinal Hayes, a prince of the religious empire, to his King.

Top hats, glittering uniforms, rich robes mounting the worn steps in solemn procession—the wealthy, the renowned, the princes and other royalty of the church, come to pay their respects to the spiritual leader of more than a million of the faithful.

And in the streets—people from his beloved sidewalks of New York, kneeling in the dust where they could and standing shoulder to shoulder — Jew, Protestant and Catholic—where they were massed too deep to kneel.

"Little old New York," the cardinal affectionately termed the city of his birth, scene of his joys and sorrows, his failures and triumphs, and "Little old New York," eyes blurred with tears, tenderly saluted his memory today.

At 10:30 a. m. the solemn procession from the cardinal's residence to the cathedral began. First, the altar boys, robed and carrying tall candles, then seminarians, priests and brothers.

Behind them the monsignori, bishops, archbishops, cardinals and papal knights. Near the end of the procession, the officers of the mass and last of all, His Eminence George Cardinal Mundelein, celebrant of the mass.

4000 IN PROCESSION

More than 4000 marched in the funeral procession of the slow muffled beat of drums of an infantry band. Well up in front walked the papal knights, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, George MacDonald, George E. Gillespie, John A. Coleman, Gerald Borden and John S. Burke, most of them, like the cardinal, graduates of the East Side.

Archbishop Cicognani, representative of the Pope in the United States, moved slowly along, head bowed, lips moving in prayer. Behind him came Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal Villeneuve of Canada.

The gates of the altar stood open. The body of the cardinal rested on its catafalque, head toward the altar, and as the great organ spoke, the procession entered the church.

Six thousand persons filling every seat, every inch of standing room in side aisles and chapels, rose to their feet. In double file, the officers of the mass preceded by cross and candles filed down the center aisle.

Standing at the foot of the altar, Cardinal Mundelein spoke the opening prayers of the pontifical requiem mass. Slowly he ascended the steps and standing at the right side of the tabernacle gave the introit.

"O God who didst raise thy servant Patrick to the dignity of cardinal priest in the apostolic priesthood," he prayed, "grant, we beseech thee, that he may be joined in the fellowship with thine apostles forevermore."

Amplifiers carried his solemn words to the thousands massed outside the cathedral.

Then the chant: "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believeth in me, although he be dead, shall live, and every one who liveth and believeth in me shall not die forever."

Then the choir chanting the age-old "Dies Irae." To the left side of the altar moves Cardinal Mundelein for the gospel of resurrection, the offertory and another prayer for the repose of the Cardinal's soul.

And now the most important part of the mass was at hand—the consecration. First kneeling, then kissing the altar, Cardinal Mundelein raises the golden chalice containing a single paper-thin wafer. An altar bell rings softly and the proudest in this great audience bow their heads as he pronounces the words:

"This is My Body and this is My Blood."

The bell rings again, the cardinal raises the golden nonsctrance containing the sip of wine. Catholics strike their breast with clinched fist.

"Oh Lord—I am not worthy that Thou should come to me," they pray.

The cardinal bows low again, acknowledges his own unworthiness, his own humbleness in the presence of the Lord. Meekly he takes the communion.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Lehman sat in a front pew. Postmaster eGneral James A. Farley thumbs his rosary. Harry Hopkins is there and Colonel William R. Arnold, army chief of chaplains, who were led by Cardinal Hayes in the World War; Captain A. C. Stott, aide of Admiral Clark Woodward; Grace Tully of the White House secretarial staff who once was secretary to the Cardinal; Newbold Morris, president of the City Council, who represents Mayor La Guardia.

BODY IN CRYPT

Hundreds of famous names are crowded into the cathedral, and delegations from a hundred organizations, Catholic and non-Catholic. Deputy Supreme Knight Francis Matthews of Omaha, Neb., and Supreme Treasurer Daniel Callahan of Washington, D. C., lead a delegation of Knights of Columbus, foremost lay society of Catholics and there are Holy Name groups from police, fire and sanitation departments and from parishes throughout the diocese.

Later the body was transferred in its coffin to the crypt beneath the great altar of the cathedral.

Demand Britain Show Might

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Evidence of mounting public support for an unmistakable British warning to Germany "before it is too late" weighed heavily today in favor of such a course in ministerial meetings devoted to the Czech-German crisis.

Persons in all walks of life urged a strong declaration at once.

These developments occurred as the French government was reported to be pressing Britain to follow the French example of war-time preparedness.

One informant said the reason was that Britain had failed by diplomacy to convince Germany she would fight if Czechoslovakia were invaded.

Some Britons believed a warning to Germany—perhaps going far beyond any previous intimations of British intervention in the event of a central European conflict—was being prepared.

The cabinet was summoned to meet Monday, a few hours in advance of Adolf Hitler's possibly fateful speech at the conclusion of the annual Nazi party congress in Nurnberg, Germany.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is to open new college buildings at Newcastle tomorrow and could take advantage of that opportunity, it was pointed out, to make stronger his and Sir John Simon's declarations that Britain might find it impossible to stand aside from a conflict developing over Czechoslovakia.

A visit to the foreign office by Anthony Eden was seen in some quarters as an indication that the former foreign secretary, who broke with Chamberlain over the premier's Italian policy and resigned February 20, again might be heard in high government councils.

Eden is one of Britain's foremost advocates of collective security and firmness against dictators.

France Cancels Civilian Leaves

PARIS, Sept. 9 (AP)—Leaves of employes in the government-owned communications system were cancelled by Premier-Defense Minister Daladier today, extending similar precautionary measures applied to the army, navy and air corps.

Telegraph, telephone and postal workers disclosed they were ordered to remain near their posts in view of "international difficulties of these critical days."

Hitler Wants Czech Plebiscite

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 9—Convinced that a plebiscite staged on the lines of the Saar referendum alone can solve the Sudeten crisis, Reichsfuehrer Hitler will "partly lift the curtain" on the Czechoslovak scene in his closing address to the Nazi Party Congress Monday, International News Service was informed authoritatively today.

At the outset, it was said, Hitler will demand uncompromisingly that all Czech police must be removed from the Sudeten area immediately.

He apparently agrees with the contention of Nazi propagandists that Czech authorities are carrying out a systematic campaign of tyranny and oppression among the Sudeten Germans.

There is every indication that Hitler's plan is to concentrate on inducing Great Britain and France to agree to a plebiscite in Sudetenland under supervision of an international commission.

BIG 'LEGAL' VOTE

In such a plebiscite in the bitterly contested Saar Valley, save for a few minor incidents, voting went off peacefully and the Nazis won an overwhelming victory. Hitler feels that similar action in the Sudeten region would result in a Nazi triumph and convince the world it had been achieved by entirely legal means.

Hitler knows, of course, that the Czech government headed by President Benes is firmly opposed to such referendum as inconsistent with the national integrity and sovereignty of Czechoslovakia.

He hopes, however, that British and French pressure can be brought to bear upon Benes.

British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson held a long conference today with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. At the same time, Karl Wilhelm Frank, Deputy Sudeten leader, arrived from Prague and went into a huddle with his chief, Konrad Henlein and Fritz Krebs.

While these discussions were in progress, a gigantic aerial display was staged as part of the Nazi congress festivities. Scores of the latest types of Messerschmidt and Heinkel bombers, including new light twin-engined bombers, roared over Nurnberg.

ON U. S. BOMBER LINES

Several squadrons flew low enough to permit observers to view their details. It was apparent the German air force had helped itself freely to the newest American bomber designs, including glass-enclosed, snub-nosed cages for observers and machine-gunners.

The high-pressure diplomatic conversations, taking place behind the curtain of the Nazi Reich's most colossal show, the annual Nazi party congress, took on added significance as Chancellor Hitler brought added pressure on Britain to induce Czechoslovakia to offer new and more sweeping peace terms.

Hitler, it was learned, is bringing pressure for resumption of the interrupted Czech peace negotiations so that a "calm atmosphere" can be maintained for the declaration of a diplomatic triumph he hopes to make before the Nazi party congress on Monday. Failing this, it is believed, he may call for a plebiscite on the Sudeten autonomy question, although Prague has indicated its opposition to such a procedure.

Sudetens Tortured, Nazis Say

BERLIN, Sept. 9 (INS)—Medieval tortures have been inflicted on imprisoned Sudeten Germans by Czech authorities, the Nazi newspaper Angriff charged today.

An "eye-witness account" published on Angriff's front page asserted that Sudeten prisoners were whipped over the backs and the soles of their feet, thumb-screws were used, and printing ink and lemon juice were poured into the wounds.

Sudetens Seek Nazist Union

By GEORGE LANGWEIL

PRAGUE, Sept. 9—Enthusiastic demonstrations by Sudeten Germans demanding a plebiscite or outright union with Nazi Germany occurred in various sections of Czechoslovakia today as the Czech Kommunist Party, opposing further concessions to the Reich, adopted a militant stand in the worsening crisis.

Demonstrations took place at Freiwaldau, Jaegerdorf and elsewhere, with the Sudetens singing the Horst Wessel song and flaunting the banned swastika.

(Editor's Note: An official German news agency dispatch reaching Berlin from Krummau, Bohemia, said Czech police charged into a crowd of several thousand Sudetens demonstrating before the city hall. Wielding rubber batons, the officers injured "some" of the demonstrators, the dispatch said. The meeting was staged in protest against the confinement to barracks of a number of Sudeten policemen. Demanding resignation of the Czech chief of police, the demonstrators shouted "we want German police."

Unnumbered thousands participated in the manifestation at Freiwaldau, where anti-Semitic shouts and cries of support for Reichsfuehrer Hitler mingled with a new sing-song chant adopted by the Sudetens:

"We want to go home to Germany."

At least 5000 took part in the Jaegerndorf incident, gathering in the public square to protest against a "state funeral" for Alfred Knoll, Sudeten leader who fell or jumped from a train while being taken to prison following his recent arrest on arms smuggling charges.

Fearing further repression would aggravate the situation, Jaegerndorf authorities lifted the ban on a public funeral procession.

The ministers of the interior here was understood to have instructed police to remain passive throughout the Sudeten region to prevent further incidents such as the alleged manhandling of two Sudeten deputies at Maehrisch-Ostrau, which led to sudden suspension of Henleinist negotiations.

Presses Britain On Aid to Czechs

PARIS, Sept. 9 (AP)—With French nervousness regarding Britain's position in the German-Czech crisis increasing, diplomatic circles reported today that Charles Corbin, French ambassador to London, had been instructed to ask the British government to proclaim publicly that it would defend the territorial integrity of Czechoslovakia.

A high foreign office official said he was unable "either to confirm or deny" this report.

Some sources also said Corbin had been told to ask Britain to take "defensive security measures" similar to those taken by France in putting her army, navy and air force on a preparedness footing.

Hearing Called In Springfield School 'Strike'

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 9—In an effort to end the bedlam attending the closing of Worthington street school, the school board today will give the parents of the "striking" children a hearing.

It will be more of a peace gesture than anything else, however, for board members have stated the school was closed as an economy measure, and there isn't enough money in the treasury to reopen it.

The children who have been on strike will have to travel a mile to the Nooker school, according to the plan.

Decision to hold the hearing and try to placate the parents and children was reached after a riotous meeting in front of the school.

Truant Officer John A. Parker went to the "picket line" of children and mothers outside the closed schoolhouse.

He said it was necessary that the school stay closed and advised the boys and girls go to the Hooker school and attend their classes.

Immediately angry mothers surrounded him and menaced him with placards.

The truant officer thereupon departed and the strike went on.

Woman, 100, Calls Children Her Joy

Bishop Lashes Bradford As 'Busy Man on Paroles'

Robert Bradford, once secretary to former Governor Joseph B. Ely and now Republican candidate for district attorney of Middlesex county, today was branded as a "very busy man on pardons and paroles" while serving the Democratic governor.

District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, whose office Bradford seeks, flung the charge at the same time that he had paid tribute to a Boston Sunday Advertiser expose of pardons and paroles during the Ely administration.

Former Mayor Leslie Knox of Somerville, who is campaigning for Bishop, took up the same theme in his talks for the Middlesex prosecutor and stated that of 283 pardons granted under Ely, 53 were given killers, gunmen and gangsters.

Bishop told his audiences that while he was aiding in the build-up of the Republican party that Bradford was campaign manager and later secretary to "his Democratic boss."

Child Saved From Fire by Nurse Recovers

Rescued from flames by his heroic governess, Peter Hilton, two-year-oldd son of Coast Guard Commander Carl H. Hilton, today was reported recovering in Medfield from effects of smoke inhalation.

With his two brothers, Carl, Jr., six, and William, four, the child was sleeping in an automobile trailer on the estate of their aunt, Mrs. Eva H. Lewis, Medfield, when an oil heater exploded.

Miss Mae Whitehead, their governess, saw the glow of fire from the house and raced to the children. No sooner had she carried them to safety when the entire trailer became a mass of flames.

The smallest boy was unconscious from the fumes when Miss Whitehead reached them. Lieutenant Commander Hilton, stationed at the New London Coast Guard Academy, and Mrs. Hilton are traveling in England.

Coast Stores Defy Strikers

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9 (INS)—Scattered violence marked San Francisco's department store strike today, as the 35 struck stores remained open and Mayor Angelo J. Rossi rushed back from Portland to try to effect a truce.

The mayor conferred with John F. Shelley, president of the San Francisco Labor Council and union officials and arranged for a meeting with Russell D. Carpenter, spokesman for the stores, in an attempt to bring them together.

Following the meeting with the mayor, Shelley said the main question was that of storewide seniority rights, demanded by the union. He indicated that if employers would consent to submit this question to arbitration, the other issue, that of preferential hiring, might be settled.

Injured Girl Fights for Life

Cheered by arrival of her mother from Shelburne, Nova Scotia, little Ruth Goodwin, 8, was said by doctors in Lynn Hospital to be staging a heroic battle against death today.

The child was given a "good chance" to recover from the skull fracture she received Sunday when accidentally struck with a baseball bat.

Coast Guards today continued their efforts to inform the girl's father, on a fishing boat off Canada, of his daughter's injury.

'She Begged Me To Kill Her--I Did'

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—An alleged ex-convict was pressed today for details of the slaying of Mrs. Marie Lamont, night club hostess, after confessing, according to police, he strangled her because "she begged me to kill her."

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle announced that William F. Raab, 38, a night club bouncer, admitted he throttled the woman in his hotel room.

The nude body of the 27-year-old victim was found on a bed in Raab's quarters at the Lorraine Hotel. Raab was in an alcoholic stupor when the police found him wading in a Garfield Park lagoon after being mysteriously missing.

At the bureau, still vowing her love for Raab, was Miss Jean Carlyle, pretty dime game girl. She had spurred the hunt for him by expressing fears that he might end his life. She showed investigators a letter he had sent her, which read in part:

"This has been a topsy-turvy old world for me and, if I should decide to leave it voluntarily, it would be all for the best."

Miss Carlyle told investigators that although she planned to marry Raab she suspected he had been attentive to another woman.

Detectives said they learned Raab had met Mrs. Lamont when both were employed by a night club on the near North Side. She and her husband, a real estate man, were estranged. Chief Sullivan quoted Raab as follows:

"We loved each other desperately but there was no chance of our being together. She begged me to kill her. I placed my fingers around her neck and choked her. I don't know whether I held her throat five minutes or a half hour. She didn't struggle."

The officer said Raab fixed the time of the slaying at 9 a. m. Tuesday. The latter declared his mind was blank from the time he left the hotel until he awoke at the detective bureau.

Detectives planned to question Raab about an electric lamp cord found near Mrs. Lamont's body. They expressed belief it was used to strangle her.

Mrs. Lamont was the mother of an eight-year-old girl.

Police Captain John Stege identified Raab as a former associate of the Touhy gangsters. He served a prison term for burglary.

Starved Girl, 6, Still Can't Talk

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP)—Alice Harris, six, babbled incoherently in the Fayette county home today after unable to talk or walk because of her long confinement in a farmhouse storage room.

The child has the mental age of an eight months baby, said the matron, M. A. M. Mead.

She said the child's grandfather, David Harris, a Dunbar, is farmer, was arrested to pay for her care by a justice here.

Harris and the child's unmarried mother, Martha Harris, 27, were charged with cruelty to an infant but charges were dismissed.

Humane society agents found the girl last February wedged into a broken chair, her frail arms tied over her head. She weighed 21 pounds to a normal.

N. E. Jews in Drive To Aid Own Jobless

Samuel Koplow, president of the New England division of the congress, stated the local office would act as a clearing house for complaints of individuals discriminated against.

KANE'S CONGRATULATES

THE BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND THE BOSTON MERCHANTS AND NEWSPAPERS WHO ARE COOPERATING IN THE "SALES MEAN JOBS" CAMPAIGN.

NATIONAL SALES MEAN JOBS CRUSADE

Five months ago (April 8, 1938) Kane's saw the necessity for selling more goods as an aid to the re-employment of labor and the restoration of prosperity for all.

At that time Kane's launched what was then an almost unprecedented "Drive to Lower Prices,—to sell more goods,—to put more men at work,—to hasten the return of prosperity for all."

Kane's spent THOUSANDS of dollars on this campaign out of patriotic desire to help conditions in New England, as well as for its own selfish interests.

Other retailers copied the plan, Boston newspapers, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Secretary of Commerce of the United States and others throughout the country applauded it. It was an immediate success. Sales poured in. Thousands were given extra employment. Factories reported increases of as high as 25% additional employment as a result of Kane's efforts!

Kane's KNOWS from EXPERIENCE what this "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign can do for the public (in the form of savings),—for the merchants,—for the manufacturers,—for prosperity as a whole. Kane's is for it 100%,—and as evidence of this, Kane's launches, beginning tomorrow at 9 A. M.

Radio Sulphur Reveals Secrets of Human Cells

By G. B. LAL

When [illegible] within the body cells, workers of tissue or man, scientists can keep track of its atoms.

Quiz Man. 6:B. In Girl Death

By JAMES F. McENANEY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 9—All trails in the hunt for the ruthless murderer of little Barbara Driscoll of Portsmouth, N. H., led to this city today.

Portsmouth police materialized to help local authorities in questioning a 64-year-old sawmill worker from Wakefield, Mass., as his home and seems to be a migratory laborer.

He is one of the number of suspects picked up on freight trains and along the highways of eastern New England since the 7-year-old girl was kidnaped and murdered.

Police Captain Harold K. Maguire said the suspect wore a blood-stained shirt when he was picked up and that the sleeves were torn away.

Barbara was a healthy, romping tomboy, and it is the theory of the authorities that she fought a brief fight for her life when she was attacked.

Maguire stated he at first said he had been home in Portsmouth more than four N. H. and that two weeks at

Officers in Portsmouth said they were [illegible] of arresting a 17-year-old boy who was a neighbor of the slain child.

The youngster, known as a "model boy," is said to have been one of the last persons seen in the company of the little girl.

Graves Trial Date Weighed

Whether or not Frederick H. Graves goes to trial on perjury charges before the next grand jury may depend upon a decision by Judge Frederick W. Fosdick of Suffolk Superior Court.

Attaches of the district attorney's office predicted that postponement would not be for longer than two or three days.

Judge Fosdick, however, has granted Graves' counsel permission to submit interrogatories to certain witnesses. They are expected to be answered within 24 hours and there was a possibility that the interrogatories may open up new evidence.

E-E-E-E! Madcap Bride Makes 'Merry'

By GLADWIN A. HILL

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—"Madcap Merry" Fahrney, a beauteous blonde heiress of 24, sat in the 150-foot living room of her Fifth avenue apartment and popped away at some celluloid birds with a BB pistol.

"Eeeeeee—eeeeee!" she squealed.

One of the birds had plopped to the floor, which was already littered with BBs and birds.

"You're marvelous, my dear!" commented her new and fourth husband.

HER SECOND TITLE

They ducked down to Elkton, Md., the "Gretna Green," in an airplane the other day and were married after a three-months acquaintance. Merry piloted the plane.

The count is her second titled husband. The other one was an Italian nobleman.

There was another couple in the living room. A count and countess, too. But your correspondent never did find out who.

"You look like Sonja Henie," he suggested to Merry.

"Eeeeeee-eeeeeee!" she said. "Somebody else told me that. If I'm going to look that way, I won't get another one of these Shirley Temple hair-do's."

MEDICINE HEIRESS

"I don't even know what medicine it was," she said. "I just know my grandfather made lots and lots of money with it.

"You don't know what it was, do you, Ollie?" turning abruptly to the count.

"No, my dear."

"EEEEEEE - EEEEEEE!" She said.

"What are you going to do while the count is busy running the dress shop—help him?" the reporter asked.

"No, I'm just going to do nothing. I've spent most of my life abroad. Over here, they don't seem to think about anything except going to night clubs and drinking and all that.

"What do you do for recreation, then?"

FORGETS HER HUSBANDS

"Oh, I go to night clubs. What else can you do? Sometimes I lock myself up and just read. I did that from May 15th to June 3rd. I only went out to go to the movies. The last book I read was Hilbert's [illegible].

"Oh, I'm crazy about astrology," she exclaimed. "I get my horoscope done every day. Every one is different."

"Did any of them show any of your husbands?" inquired your correspondent.

"I don't remember," said Merry. "I never remember any of them. EEEEEEE EEEEEE!"

Hoover Warns 'Deal Bedlamite' Plans Speeches

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 9 (AP)—America may find the New Deal "more bedlamite than liberal," Herbert Hoover declared in an interview today. En route east by train to deliver two of three speeches, the former President smoking an after-breakfast cigar said:

"Mr. Roosevelt has proposed that the New Deal be converted into a major political party.

"He states that it is to be liberal. I propose to explore this idea in a series of speeches.

"May we find this new party more bedlamite than liberal. We will find that like all other political parties it has some good objectives. Fortunately for the American people they do not have to take this new party on trust.

"After six years of experience with it, we can soberly apply the test given us by the greatest teacher of mankind.

"'Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes from thorns or figs from thistles?'

"I shall omit the other part of that lesson, which mentions false prophets in sheep's clothing.

"The first address, at Kansas City, Sept. 28, will discuss the moral foundations of this new party. The second, at Hartford, Ct., on October 17, will debate its bearings on representative government.

"The third, at Spokane, Wash., probably on November 4 or 5, will explore its economic consequences to workers and farmers, and in all three I will suggest alternative action to meet the changing times."

Hoover said he did not plan to speak in behalf of any [illegible] said that he [illegible] will be under auspices of the Republican state com[illegible]

Buckley Flays Asylum Heads

State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley today assailed trustees of Westboro State Hospital on learning that two hospital officials who resigned after being charged with "inefficiency" had been reappointed.

The two men are Steward Perley I. Wiley and Head Farmer Raymond Whitney, who resigned following investigation.

Buckley declared:

"I wonder what prompted the board of trustees to ask for the continuance on the payroll of men who have admitted their utter failures in administrative positions."

HIS MONUMENT

The Editor Says:

The death of Cardinal Hayes has deprived New York of one of the wisest and most influential citizens it has ever known.

More than that, it deprives the nation of one of its foremost and best citizens, for Cardinal Hayes was a great patriot as well as a great priest.

In his own unassuming and unostentatious manner, in the Federation of Catholic Charities which he founded several years ago and later, in the work of the most effective organizations of philanthropy and mercy.

This achievement won for Cardinal Hayes the especial commendation of Pope Pius who had raised him to the purple.

It won for him in the hearts of the people whom he served the agnomen of "Cardinal of Charity" by which he will be long remembered.

AS A PRIEST and a prelate, Cardinal Hayes was, of course, a teacher of morality.

But his precepts and his example were not restricted to the pulpit.

He was a leader among those who established the Legion of Decency to crusade against prurience and obscenity on the screen and stage, and in the "literature" of the day.

In his life, as in his sermons and public addresses, Cardinal Hayes took for his motto the words "Faith" and "Loyalty."

He practiced as well as preached the ideals of reverence for God and love of country.

On these pillars, he told a Holy Name Society convention in 1936, depends the survival of America as a free nation.

THE CHARACTERISTIC of a God fearing patriot made the pattern of his career.

In a very real sense he fought for America.

During the World War as Catholic Chaplain General, he sent a thousand priests to the army and the navy as spiritual advisers to the men of the services.

Then and afterward he was an ardent advocate of an adequate national defense.

Of more recent years he rallied the hosts of Christianity to defend the country against the inroads of atheism and Communism, in which movements he discerned the worst enemies of America.

And Patriot Hayes himself exemplified the American spirit which he was trying to preserve.

An orphan boy in New York City's crowded East Side, he made of himself a world renowned scholar and a world-respected administrator.

His purple robe, at the end of his days, was among the truly eminent, as his [illegible] was unsullied.

Yet a [illegible] and useful years, he walked "humbly with his God."

IT'S THREE-IN-ONE—that is the name of the new dance creation which is taking Boston by storm. It is a combination of tango, fox trot and waltz. Hence the apt name.

We are pleased to find our city dance-conscious. We find it a healthy sign.

Certainly six years of needless depression have given us enough tears and [illegible]. So, with the return of recovery, it is both fitting and proper that all of us, young and old, find a ballroom, a good orchestra and enjoy the dance best suited to our talent and ability.

The dawn of every era of prosperity has been attended by the introduction of new dances. The happier period that approaches will not prove an exception.

Shakespeare Dons Modern Dress

By EDWIN C. HILL

COPYRIGHT, 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE NEW YORK Limited Editions Club issues a handsome prospectus for its forthcoming illustrated Shakespeare. It will be a tour de force in the publishing world—not the first time the Bard has been illustrated I believe but unquestionably the most colorful and most lavish project of the kind.

The sample illustrations in black and white and colors which will be in evidence in the text are by such artists as Arthur Rackham, Norman Lagoon, Gordon Craig, Rex Gee, Gordon Ross and Rene Seeman. They seemed to me to be very beautiful indeed.

When in the selection of artists first employed Chairman John proposed to illustrate the Bard there was much opposition from [illegible] quarters.

There was similar opposition to the recent painting of the Bard into modern English and there were those who thought Limited Editions for Shakespeare were a sort of sacrilege on hallowed ground.

THE FOLLOWING [illegible] of the opinion I have always held—that Shakespeare belongs to the ages and is universal and immortal.

What a performance it would seem to feel Mr. Pickwick or Alice in Wonderland done by a modern artist, appearing in an entirely new guise no matter how splendidly effective the drawings might be!

Our clinging to tame beloved stereotypes of faith, inspiration or entertainment is natural and understandable and I confess that I am quite an old stick in this respect. I seem to like what I like but I have an idea that beholding it in unfamiliar and modern guise would be a shock.

"Hamlet" and "Macbeth" are like the Bible and Shakespeare to me. No publisher can afford to take liberties with them. I always remember Mr. Mantell's knowledge and appreciation of Shakespeare and Mr. Irving's and Ellen Terry's.

SO WHY SHOULDN'T THE ARTISTS HAVE A TURN AT IT?

In short why not [illegible] the dull grind of high school days perhaps under some deadly pedagogue who dissected a masterpiece until it was no more than a cadaver when somebody all the classics have some fine up-and-coming stage [illegible] with in the composition of a modern youngsters understanding and appreciation?

I DO SAY a word for [illegible] would turn the art staff of the newspaper [illegible] Mr. Hearst, Mr. Patterson, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Ochs or Mr. Sulzberger et al for the splendid [illegible] Each would have [illegible] of the greatest stories in the world, the greatest characters and best [illegible] And just as pleasing would [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] a word or two.

"A Mid-summer Night's Dream"
As Hollywood Artists Conceive It

(Editor's Note: Mr. Hill's column appears daily in The Boston Evening American.)

'Bugs' Baer Says:

INSPECTOR BYRNES states that only one man could engrave a complete United States Treasury plate without assistance. That was Dutch Ulrich, who learned engraving in his father's store in Danzig and came to America in 1852.

BEFORE he [illegible] known [illegible] Ulrich [illegible] ed in New York by a British agent sent to Nova Scotia and sailed back to Europe without the slightest idea of his destination. It proved to be the Crimean War, in which Dutch fought for 18 months in two left shoes.

AT THE end of the war he returned to New York and resumed whatever he had been doing. This was the noble pastime of counterfeiting $100 bills on three national banks in as many different states. He became wealthy and settled in the early part of 1867 for a final effort in Cincinnati. He began to engrave a counterfeit $500 U. S. Treasury note. This was to be the finest work but he was arrested and given 12 years in jail.

HE ENGRAVED the only perfect plate on the Bank of England, with the watermark so marvelous that it was never detected. All these bills were accepted as genuine by the Bank of England. The coniackers of two worlds sang the praises of Ulrich.

Butlers Would Object If Rich Sobbed Too Loudly

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.

WE MUST take issue with one of the fundamentals of the movie story, which is that the rich are invariably discontented and unhappy and that the poor are always joyous. We have been studying this theory for some years now, mainly at long range as far as the rich are concerned, but at first hand with the poor.

It is our conclusion that the rich seem to manage to keep in right good spirits, while on the other hand there is occasionally some moroseness to be detected among the poor. In fact we make bold to say that many of the poor are downright bofed with their lot.

We will go farther and say that many of the poor would gladly exchange places with the rich, despite the premise of the movie story that it is the rich would gladly change places with the poor. Indeed, we have partly confirmed this by asking some of the poor if they would like such a change and the answer in all cases was, in effect, "You're darn tootin'."

THE MOVIES are supposed to mirror life.

For instance, just suppose a movie story is submitted to Mr Sam Goldwyn, a stickler for the accurate mirroring of life, in which story the rich Farthingales are presented as unhappy because of their lot.

They yearn, so the story says, for the happy-go-lucky life of the Flannagans, over beyond the railroad tracks, where poverty starkly stalks, but where there is contentment, according to the story. We will omit any extended mention here of the lovely little Marianna Harrigan who enters into the story with a wardrobe and diction somewhat surprising for her upbringing or what happens to her and young Sidney Farthingale.

WE ARE NOT concerned with that phase of the story. We are concerned with the alleged unhappiness of the rich Farthingales and with Mr Samuel Goldwyn as he reads the story. In another day, Mr. Goldwyn might have been excused for saying to himself "This is mirroring life" and closing his cameramen to start grinding, but we feel sure Mr. Goldwyn knows better now.

All he has to do is consider his own case and ask himself: "Sam, are you unhappy? Would you like to change places with the rich?"

IF HE ASKED himself these questions, we are pretty sure that Mr. Samuel Goldwyn would see that the story did not mirror life at all and he would hie him forth from his gold-inlaid studio and find the writer that submitted the story to him and give him a swift kick in the trousers for trying to palm off a spurious mirroring on him.

We have gazed from afar at Mr. Jock Whitney, and Mr. Alfy Vanderbilt, and Mr. Warren Wright, and several of the Rockefellers, and a couple of Morgans, and a raft of other rich, and it always struck us that they looked happy enough. We never saw any of them shedding tears over being rich, at least not in public, and we doubt if they cry about it in private. Their butlers would kick about the noise

"FLAT FOOT FLOOGEE WITH THE FLOY FLOY"
Club Mayfair Dancers Hail Killer-Diller, Jitterbug Tune

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

PROBABLY the world's greatest swing tune is "Flat Foot Floogee" whether you like it or not. And its present hit has had the civilized world tapping fingers and chanting the gibberish of its goofy words.

This roller-down tire came into being last January 6 in a radio station practice room in New York where Slim and Sam, two wacky cowboy musicians with the impressive

Sudden's they found that at South Stewart's can pile what is known the trade as a hit which is a series of choicest notes that rain or hail-size.

They knew at once that it had something enough they didn't realize that its real beauty of notes would set them a fortune in a few months.

As for the words, most of us know that they begin like this:

The Flat Foot Floogee with the floy floy
The Flat Foot Floogee with the floy floy
The Flat Foot Floogee with the floy floy
Floy floy the floogee floy floy floy.

None of us know what that means, whether we be educated or not. Bob Scott, author of the piece, he says:

Just had to get a story a day and every word is meant to end in a flop. Why the boy has heads at the others. The rest of the words just come to fit the music.

The average Darling doesn't care who it was—Azzia Fud Foot Floogee or anything else—but when we swing. He just loves it to distraction—and a couple of attaboys!

THE NEW STYLES are delightful, I think. At last we have found a perfect blending of casual comfort for daytime and romantic gaze for evening.

Many are saying that the modern girl will not be satisfied with simple sweaters and fussing with cars or golf or tennis. But I think we have to give credit to the adventurous girls just for starting a new era.

The girl who can't ride is the best able to learn. Are that because for the first of fall the. No doubt it has a few to recall the "sleeping." It refers the "sweet sense of pleasure" which has been starting all the school through modern streamlined years. So please don't refuse to accept fragile and wear a few of the cute and frisky skirts!

Yes I say skirts for every girl in the step windows during the fall week and I have already found for the week goes with a taffeta, gown sleeves, with velvet bows.

If we can't wear it we'll be losing the style.

I know I should not confess
Until I set you on guard
To the many absurdities I feel
And even the questions I'm my heart

Yet I can't stop to write them
Regardless, compromises such
As these. I'm too much because I must
For that it's not so much.

Later, there were a series of social parties on Belmont and at one of them I met for the first time the late O. O. McIntyre and a few whom I thought I knew. I decided not to. A few months later, "Mr. Broadway" came over and said "By the way, before I forget it I don't think we've ever met. I'm Berton Braley. I write poetry for the papers." Butler Second Choice in G. O. P. Race

Along the avenue of political gossip, Frederic R. Butler of Andover today moved into second place and was gaining in the Republican race for the party nomination as candidate for governor.

In the minds of those close to the race, Butler supplanted Richard Whitcomb who was considered running second but who ran into a snag with the resignation of several key organization workers.

Butler has been conducting a quiet campaign and today was reported showing strength that was surprising to many of the party leaders.

After addressing a gathering at Worcester he was headed for Springfield and other western cities for conferences with his managers.

Pity the Director

Pay Only $1500 to $6250 Week

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9 (AP)—Salaries of Hollywood's ace directors were of public record today—introduced at their own behest in an effort to win the right to bargain collectively with motion picture studios under the Wagner act.

John Ford topped the list with $6250 a week. Ernst Lubitsch, before leaving Paramount, received $5000 a week. Others include Roy Del Ruth, $4873; Al Santel, $4000; Wesley Ruggles, $4025; Frank Lloyd, $3500; William Seiter, $3250; David Butler, $3000; Irving Cummings, $2500; Sidney Lanfield, $2250; Walter Lang, $2000; George Marshall, $1500.

Directors seek to show they and their assistants are "salaried employes" rather than "contract workers" as the studios contend.

[illegible] James' illness and weighed [illegible] possibility of going to Rochester.

Franklin Jr. told the Boston Evening American today:

"Naturally, I'm worried about Jimmy, although maybe we're all taking this too seriously.

"I don't know yet whether I'll go out to Rochester or not. That'll depend on what father decides. He's in closer touch with the situation.

"I haven't heard from father, but I'm expecting to go to Hyde Park later today and see him.

GRANDMOTHER PHONES

"Ethel's fine, thank you. Campobello did her lots of good."

At the Shattuck Hotel, after talk [illegible] with Jean and Elliott, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt said:

"I had hoped to see John. But he had to go to work at the store so early he couldn't visit me.

"Al I've heard from Rochester is that they won't operate until Monday, and I know very little [illegible]

Jimmy Has Good Night

ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 9—A Mayo Clinic bulletin this morning declared James Roosevelt, who faces an operation on Monday, passed a restful night.

Attending doctors said the President's visit to see Jimmy does not necessarily indicate a change for the worse in young Roosevelt's condition. Gastric operations are always termed "serious," they said, but are not in themselves indicative of a critical condition.

Says Roosevelt Calls Halt On Deal Purge

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—The New York Times says in a dispatch from Hyde Park that "President Roosevelt's 'purge' of the party conservative and anti-New Deal Democrats will be limited for the present to the few candidates he has already marked for opposition in the primaries, it was indicated after a conference between the Chief Executive and Attorney General Cummings."

The Times said it was understood there would be no attempt by the Roosevelt forces to displace Senator Lonergan at the Connecticut State Democratic convention despite his record of opposition [illegible] New Deal measures.

"While no further steps will be taken by the Washington leaders of the party in the congressional primaries," the article continued, "it seemed apparent that the President has no intention of dropping his drive for election of liberals in November, even if this means open support of Republican candidates in isolated instances.

"Thus, so far as the current Democratic primary situation is concerned, Mr. Roosevelt is willing to permit his 'purge' efforts to stand or fall on the outcome in Georgia, Maryland and New York city, where, as head of the Democratic party, he is waging a fight against Senators George and Tydings and Representative John O'Connor."

Dorothy Backus Makes Debut

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTON DEBS can thank their lucky stars that old John Harvard picked a particular spot to build a college. Right on the Charles River as a side line to a university . . . and also because the university grew to be a society affair, many a social romance among the sons of prominent families come from out of town to participate in the gala proms in their partners and entertain . . .

The Harvard men on the social committees of each house always promote at least one hostess a prominent social figure who is to draw the necessary guests for the dinner dances and dances . . . so by the time a member of the Harvard senior class receives his diploma he has not only completed the required number of study hours in his respective courses but also many an extra-curricular hour of sing and tea party duty . . .

Hostesses in other cities are not so fortunate for they have to stage their house parties when the boys are not away at college . . . and are temporarily renewing their acquaintance with mama and papa by spending a week or so at home . . .

In New York, Chicago, Detroit and other cities a brief whirl of festivities attends the return between the end of summer activities and the beginning of the first semester . . . Then the Boston social season will pursue its leisurely course with all sorts of parties throughout the fall and early winter . . . up to the Christmas vacation when the sons of other cities once again come into their own . . .

An elaborate swan song of this week's festivities in Detroit will be the party this evening at which Mr. and Mrs. Standish Backus will present their daughter, Dorothy . . . The Backus family spends the summer season at Manchester, where Dorothy and her sister Virginia are active in social doings of the younger Boston crowd . . .

Ralph Pope Jr., who has been Dottie's frequent escort this summer, has gone out for the party, together with Marie Primet Standish Van Vleck Jr. and Mrs. Boyer Miller, all of the North Shore . . . A dance floor has been erected in the gardens at the Backus estate on the shores of Lake Michigan and the young people will listen to the music of Ruby Newman who flies out for the party . . . Moonlight and floodlights carefully concealed in the shrubbery will garden on Dottie's lovely dress of white net entirely beaded with sequins and she will carry a bouquet of white orchids chosen especially for her by her father . . .

Wedding at Harrower Estate

Since her first marriage to Lawton Champie was terminated by divorce several years ago, Mrs. Champie has lived in Brookline . . . She is the daughter of the late Alvah Crocker, Jr., and a niece of several very socially prominent Bostonians . . .

GREAT INTEREST

"I am extremely gratified at the tremendous amount of interest displayed in our contest and at the unusually large number of contestants who commented most favorably on both our concern and on the fascination of the contest itself.

"The tremendous number of replies, which was far in excess of our fondest hopes, show unquestionably the position which Kane's occupies in the minds of people all over New England.

"We are happy to congratulate the winners of the contest and sorry that all who entered could not be winners as we dislike exceedingly to have anyone disappointed. I wish to extend my sincere thanks for their efforts and interest to all those who participated and trust, for those who did not win, that they will have better luck next time."

Constitution Day Plans Made

Plans were made today for elaborate ceremonies in historic Faneuil Hall, September 17, to celebrate the 151st anniversary of Constitution Day in the building known all over the world as the "Cradle of American Liberty."

A street pageant, featuring United States troops, sailors, national guardsmen, veteran organizations and thousands of local citizens is being arranged.

Frances Cary Harney, executive secretary of the Constitution Day Committee announced today final plans would not be made until Governor Hurley and the state council have reviewed their arrangements.

The committee, composed of 100 patriotic citizens all over the country, works in conjunction with other committees in every state.

Prominent speakers, including many leading state officials, will take part in the celebration, Harney said.

"This year, more than ever, Americans realize the priceless possession of liberty. With the situation in Europe at a crisis because of the crisis of liberty, it behooves us to preserve and celebrate—the finest government in the world."

Bank Deposits At Record High

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Deposits held in by the nation's banking system are fast approaching the all-time record high and by the end of this month should closely approximate peak figures.

Yet, strange as it may seem at first glance, earnings and loans are either at or close to recent low levels.

The principal causes of the boost in deposit totals are found in the government's deficit spending program and dollar devaluation plans coupled with the flight of capital to this country and the prospect that there will be no important withdrawals of gold [illegible] account for expectations the record high will be approximated.

The jump in available investment funds created a real problem for bankers. One which they have [illegible] and the [illegible] shown.

Some business recovery has not yet progressed far enough to create a large scale borrowing demand and since interest rates are in the opinion of many, abnormally low bank earnings naturally declined.

If recovery is paced by a healthy growth in confidence and if it is not characterized by unthinking speculation than a later increase in bank loans and a consequent rise in earnings is a distinct probability.

HOPELESS TASK

Almost every mail brings in a forecast from some source as to just what the market is going to do. And very few of them are couched in terms that allow for happenings contrary to the forecaster's pet ideas. Maybe that is the right way to go about the business of interpreting the market. But we can't see it. With nothing more to go on than recent market action we think the formation of definite theories is almost hopeless.

• • •

[illegible] one thing. And that is to move into [illegible] purchase [illegible] equities. Confirmation, uncertainty and confusion as to the future are written in case by such action. True [illegible] is a most [illegible] certain what it is to be when the conditions that surround current behavior are so pregnant with doubt.

STATE ST. SIDELIGHTS

With unemployment figures offered in support of the relief program featuring the financial news the boardrooms are wondering how much of an increase can be expected in the government's payroll of some 6,000,000 persons. Some observers think the bull crowd may make a stab at arousing buying sentiment by giving the low priced issues a rush. They point out that the average trader is not much impressed by stability of stocks selling above par.

Good News

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 9—Fisher metal and motor plants of Chevrolet division of General Motors Corp. will resume Monday, with full crews of 8000 men to be working by Wednesday. The final assembly line here is likely to start work on 1939 models later in the month or early next month.

American Metal Markets reports that some of the heavier lines are more active in New England, especially stove foundries, which have lengthened their work week by a day—they are now operating five days a week in all departments. This is true of three principal Massachusetts units and is believed typical of the industry as a whole.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9— (INS) Unparalleled interest in the government's slum-clearance and private construction programs will initiate one of the biggest building booms in the history of the nation, according to Nathan Straus U. S. Housing Authority administrator.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—A substantial increase in incoming volume of truck orders has been experienced recently by Mack Trucks, Inc. Beginning early in July the trend of orders definitely reversed the sharp downtrend which had been in evidence during the preceding nine months of the general business decline.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—Retail sales of the large metropolitan department stores have shown a sharp increase during the past week, running well ahead of a year ago. In contrast to the last two weeks of August, when sales were about 14 percent under 1937, volume of the last seven days for the majority of stores is understood to be over 9 percent ahead of last year.

Boston Wool Mart Restricted Affair

Activity was very restricted in the Boston wool market today. The day's business was limited mostly to small purchases to piece out stocks of wool on hand to cover old orders.

New business in goods requiring extensive buying of raw wool was lacking. The limited requirements for wool were being filled mostly by odd lots that could be bought at prices under the general level of quotations.

Ban on Excess Gas Profit Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9 (AP) - The State Railroad Commission's five-year-old order cutting Pacific Gas and Electric Company natural gas rates $2,300,000 annually was upheld as "not confiscatory" today by the Federal Circuit court.

Strikers Refill Garment Jobs

All striking Kneeland street garment workers were back on their jobs today following settlement of the differences which for two weeks kept a king picket line blocking the street, resulting in many arrests.

Harry Bergson was acted upon by workers and employers to handle all of the disputes. The agreement calls for a 36-hour week and a 12 1/2 per cent increase for about half of the 250 workers.

Austen Lake:

Locker Room Life Among the Yankees

A CONSERVATIVE MAN, THIS McCARTHY. The chubby little gent with the Santa Claus face who manages the Yankees was saying in his nasal, up-state twang, "I dunno, we ain't in yet." The Boston ball writers were pressing him for some official utterance on the coming World Series, and Joe kept swinging his feet from the top of a uniform trunk and saying "I dunno." "Doc Painter, the ex-Braves' therapeutist, was giving Lefty Gomez's arm a rhythmic jiggle, and the rest of the Yankees were coming, pink from the steaming showers, as Joe said "Dunno" for the fourteenth time. "You don't take nuthin' for granted in baseball."

Austen Lake

Well, maybe you don't. There is that florid youth with the full moon features who was toweling himself under the armpits—"Huffing, Puffing, Ruffing" we used to call him in the raggetty Red Sox day when he was a blubbery kid fresh from the coal mines and giving Bill Carrigan and Bob Quinn the horrors. If only the Sox had taken him a little more for granted.

For Ruff is a 20-game man with an ideal look a firm set to his mouth and a jaw that bulges with natural fire when you take him for granted now. But in the [illegible] Sox he had been a kind of juvenile game saver—one who committed heresies on the box—facing batters of 2 and 3 and taking [illegible] pitchings denote a fund of raw pride power. Then a [illegible] and an inane grin which Carrigan [illegible] used to say looked like it was painted on an egg.

Grove Is Back; To Hurl Again

Best Since Oberlander's Day

Blaik Fields Steamroller

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 8 (INS)— A big, green shadow rising from Hanover's hills spreads over the 1938 football horizon today.

Dartmouth's football Indians are on the warpath. The drums are rolling out the omen that the "big injun is headed for his greatest conquest since the 25 days of Swede" Oberlander and Eddie Jeppers and Saye and Tully.

The Minnesota of the East appears headed for an undefeated, untied season, greater than last year's record which was marred by ties against Yale and Cornell.

Can the Big Green uphold this glowing prediction?

Head Coach Earl "Red" Blaik is smoking his pipe of peace and quiet, getting drilling his squad hard in the fundamentals of tackling and tackling he emphasizes so much.

[illegible] stewed [illegible]

[illegible] faces the [illegible] with two warmup games [illegible] September 24 and St. Lawrence on October 1. Then Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Penn, Navy, Cornell, Brown, Holy Cross and Columbia follow in successive weeks. Dartmouth has [illegible] successive weeks to [illegible] Pitt, Aug. 29, to Columbia, Oct. 29.

Starting at left [illegible] this year the Hanks 1937 squad was so rich [illegible] a wealth of experienced material.

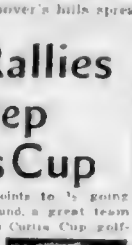
Blaik's biggest problem this year is to find a replacement as left guard for Roy Duckworth who was graduated.

U. S. Rallies To Keep Curtis Cup

Trailing 2¼ points to ¾ going into the final round, a great team of United States Curtis Cup golfers staged a brilliant comeback to emerge the winner over an equally great team of Great Britain and Ireland members of the Essex County Club to retain the prized trophy.



Patty Berg

It was one of the greatest [illegible] rallies of [illegible] National play. The U. S. [illegible] the six singles to win by [illegible] points.

The victory was [illegible], and the last match of the six singles encounters in which Charlotte Glutting engaged Miss Board of Great Britain.

The winning edge was provided by Mrs. Vivian Carye N. J. girl as she won the last three holes.

Miss Julius A. Page of Greenboro, S. C., current national champion, started the home forces toward their third Curtis Cup win in four starts as she routed Mrs. A. M. Holm, holder of the British title, 6 and 5.

She was immediately followed by Patty Berg, the Minneapolis miss, with a 1 up win over Jessie Anderson Scotland's woman golf ruler.

Other [illegible]

Marion Miley Kentucky defeated Elsie Corlett 2 and 1; Mrs. [illegible] DeVe the former Curtis Cup defeated Mrs. [illegible] Walker 2 and 1; Claire Leitzel Great Britain defeated Maureen Orcutt 2 and 1; Charlotte Glutting topped Miss Board 1 up.

Cocoa Kid Choice To Defeat Martin

N. E. Title Up In Garden Go Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

George Martin of the South End will take a crack at the Cocoa Kid's New England welterweight championship when they clash in a 15-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight.

The speculative element has installed the Cocoa Kid a 10 to 7 favorite in view of his greater ring experience.

Martin came through the Callahan tussle unmarked and since then has kept in the best of condition by daily workouts with his sparring partners.

Cocoa Kid did his training in

his home town of New Haven. He is of the opinion that his fiery attack, and heavy punching power will enable him to add Martin to his list of victims.

Martin is a graduate of the Hearst All-America boxing shows. His limitless energy and ability to hit have enabled him to pile up a long list of victories since he entered the ranks of the professionals.

BARTOLO VS. GARCIA

Salvatore Bartolo of East Boston, another former Hearst All-America champion, will oppose Sammy Garcia of Quincy in a six-round bout on tonight's card. Sergeant Sammy Baker and young Byron will also step six heats.

In four-round tussles, George Salamone of East Boston, also a former Hearst All-America star, will take on Bobby Martinez, Jerry Zullo will mingle with Tony Morillo, while Jackie Lupo will toss fistic barrages at Bob Hagen (Tony Vento).

Scrimmage for B. U. Gridmen

3 Key Men Missing From Brown Camp

Terrier Stars In Good Shape

Gone are the long periods of conditioning before risking contact work at Boston University.

Terrier gridmen during the past four years under Pat Hanley have learned to report in shape or spend long hours on the bench.

The result of this teaching was shown this afternoon when the Scarlet and White got plenty of contact work on their third day of activity.

This will be followed by a real "blood and thunder" scrimmage tomorrow afternoon behind closed gates.

Pat is eagerly awaiting this battle tomorrow as he has made several shifts and if they appear practical tomorrow, they stand—otherwise the boys go back to their old jobs.

Rollie Bernard, a former center who played end last year is now the first string right guard, a bit complicated but true.

Mickey Alpert moves from guard to center and Ray Needham from center to blocking quarterback.

During dummy scrimmage where the pressure has been off, these changes have looked great but when the actual blocking and tackling begins from top speed, the outcome may be a bit different.

Gintoff Hopes For Big Year

After almost two weeks of four-hour sessions daily the Boston College Eagle of the grid is approaching the pink of condition.

For the most part the squad reported last week in good physical shape. The single Dobie drill each day, topped off this week by the innovation of the scrimmage between Teams 1 and 2, and 3 and 4, has sharpened edges all around.

Gintoff is primed for a great season. Upon this triple threat's shoulders will rest the major part of the backfield duties.

Weather Aid to Bruin Squad

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 9 (AP)—With a squad of 37 men in camp, Brown has only three key members of the group missing.

Irving "Shine" Hall, Harold Detwiler and Amos Taylor, the latter two sophomores, are not due until the week-end.

The cool weather has been an incentive for hard work and Coach "Tuss" McLaughry already has his men well along in work on plays, live tackling and blocking against the dummies.

Gale Wisbach, veteran guard, has been moved to tackle to plug up the gap there, and Donald McNeil is being worked at both centre and tackle.

Hodder Named Harvard Coach

Clark Hodder, for seven years freshman hockey coach at Harvard, has been named varsity coach for the coming season to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Joe Stubbs last spring, the committee on regulation of Harvard sports announced today.

Hodder, a graduate of Harvard in 1925 via Newton High School, was active in hockey and golf circles in both school and college. At Harvard he made his freshman ice team, was on the varsity his junior and senior years, and played on the golf team three years.

Penn Drills at Hershey

Eaglets Low In Linemen

Chief repairman of the Boston College High football team, Jim Moran, is somewhat down in the mouth these afternoons thinking of his 1938 Eaglet outfit.

Jim is all upset about this fall's forward wall. He quickly admits, though, his backfield is the best he has handled since he took over high school mentoring.

"What I would do for a few husky linemen," he commented yesterday, putting his charges through their initial paces of the '38 season at Franklin Field in Dorchester.

"It's going to be an awful headache for my speedy backs, Ronald "Red" Sliney, Bob Mason, Bernie Nice and Bill Commane, if I don't come up with some pretty fair linemen in the next couple of weeks.

"Even these four backs, and they are certainly as good as any schoolboy ball toters in the state, won't be able to gain a yard if they haven't a fairly potent forward wall in front of them.

"Right now, Captain Joe Ryan, Dick O'Flaherty and "Pal" Pellegrini are the only linemen back from last fall's eleven. These three fellows are O. K. Sure. But, as I said before, you can't call three men a powerful forward wall.

"Perhaps I can best sum up the whole situation with this statement:

"If B. C. H. can show a pretty well balanced line before the season moves too far along it will prove a tough machine for all its opponents throughout the fall campaign."

At yesterday's opening-day practice, some 35 candidates were on hand. Of these, seven reported as lettermen while three others saw a little service last fall.

Perry Blasts Title Tennis

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Fred Perry, who now plays tennis for money and likes his work, has looked over the field in the current national singles championships at Forest Hills and has decided that the standard of play among the amateurs is getting worse faster than it is getting better.

Perry's impression, while not necessarily conclusive and perhaps even a little biased, is interesting, nevertheless, because he backs it up with sound reasoning and all but draws a diagram.

"Look over the field," he demanded. "With the exception of Don Budge they're all baseline players. Not a one of the others knows how to rush the net and take charge of a match.

"And I can tell you why they're all playing this cautious, never-take-a-chance stuff. They have learned that as soon as they get knocked out of a tournament the club quits paying their expenses.

"I think Bill Tilden still could trim any of them except Budge. Why, yes, I should be able to beat any of the amateurs. Playing against Ellsworth Vines all the time for 18 months couldn't help improving my game, could it?"

PERRY RIGHT

It wasn't necessary to take Perry's word about the baseline trend. A tour of the 20 green courts where matches were in progress revealed the stars on opening day were content to shoot sitting ducks. They sat back and let the nervous boys and girls make the errors.

"That's the trouble with Budge right now, more than his sore throat," Perry opined. "He's been taking it too easy in too many matches. Hasn't had any opposition. He didn't know what to do with himself when Bromwich and Quist started crowding him in the Davis Cup matches."

The great Don, incidentally, remained in his hotel room most of yesterday and rested his ailing larynx. He thought it was a little better and fully intended to play his opening match today against Welby Van Horn, a promising junior from Los Angeles.

As usual, nothing much happened the first day, and the odds were that this day's play would be similarly unexciting. Don McNeill of Oklahoma scored the only thing approaching an opening day upset by defeating Bernard Destremeau of France, 6—2, 4—6, 6—1, 6—3. The girls all won as scheduled.

The best thing on today's card appeared to be the match between Bobby Riggs and Frank Guernsey, Jr., of Rice Institute, the intercollegiate champion. Joe Hunt and Wayne Sabin, Davis Cup alternates of the last two seasons, clashed in the second best. The word was around that Sidney Wood, Jr., the 16-year-old boy wonder, was playing great tennis and might upset somebody before the tournament ends.

Gold Shower?

Don Budge, champion of just about all the surveys in the amateur tennis world, cools off after practice session for start in National championship at Forest Hills. It may be a shower of gold in a few months for Budge is reported ready to turn pro.

Louisville Added to Red Sox Farms

By WALTER KILEY

Purchase of Louisville of the Double-A American Association and the resultant acquisition of Donie Bush, who will become manager and part owner of the new Red Sox farm, spikes those so prevalent rumors that President Tom Yawkey of the Boston club has been seeking ways and means to identify Micky Cochrane in his organization.

Bush, at this moment highly successful manager of Minneapolis of the American Association, a club with a working agreement with the Sox, will meet with Yawkey and Eddie Collins in New York next week to iron out final details and to lay plans for stocking the Colonels with outstanding major league prospects.

In the new setup, Bush, a sensational shortstop with the Tigers in the days of Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford, and the man who turned down only last winter the opportunity of managing the Boston Bees after similar directing services with the Pirates, White Sox and Reds, is taken into the official Red Sox family.

The Red Sox will own Louisville outright, the purchase price said to be in the neighborhood of $100,000, and including a valuable piece of property recently renovated in what is considered a hot baseball town.

The deal, which came up suddenly, and was completed inside of a very few days, would look to be the launching of a new Red Sox farm system, similar to the Yankee organization, which has been feeding the New Yorkers with promising players for years. It makes a second outright-owned Red Sox farm, Little Rock, Arkansas the other.

The acquisition price we consider cheap in view of the fact that Shortstop Reese of the Colonels, a 19-year-old sensation, just out of high school, has been sought after by many big league clubs.

Tom Eesick, Yankee scout, is said to have offered $40,000 for the youngster, the Reds and Cugs making other large but unsuccessful offers.

In fact it was the presence of Reese on the Louisville roster which induced Yawkee to put through the deal for the club.

Handball Finals At Charlestown

Twenty-four teams of two men each started the tournament which was directed by Neil Collins. The winning team will be awarded two loving cups, one for each man.

The prizes were donated by ex-City Councillor James J. Mellen.

The champions will accept the challenge of any other hand ball team in Greater Boston.

Miss Golden Gate Out of Cup Meet

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (INS)—Much-needed repairs to the hull and work on the engine will prevent the speedboat Miss Golden Gate, Gold Cup second-prize winner, entering the President's Cup regatta, owners Dan Arena and Dan Foster said today.

A one-and-one-half foot section of the right pontoon, ripped off during the gold cup event, must be repaired before the boat can take the water.

Vines Chasing Glory in Golf

OAKMONT, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, the tennis star who proved himself better than a dub at golf by qualifying for the national amateur, said that Don Budge is in no hurry about joining the pro net ranks.

"Budge is interested in those professional offers," he said during a luncheon intermission from the links, "but he feels there is no hurry about accepting them.

"I know Budge well, and he thinks if he can get $50,000 or $75,000 now he can still get it next year. The way amateur tennis is now he doesn't feel there is anybody who can beat him, and I guess he's probably right.

"Bobby Riggs would come nearest to beating him, I expect, but that's not likely to happen just yet."

Vines, who qualified at Los Angeles for the national amateur, arrived yesterday with Pat Abbott, former national public links champion, who accompanied him on the cross-country drive.

Asked if he saw any of the Davis Cup matches at Germantown, Pa., last week-end, Vines replied:

"No, I'm just not interested any more in amateur tennis. When I turned professional I gave up all that an nowdays I don't get the slightest fun sitting in the stands and watching them play."

But golf fascinates him as a means of relaxation.

"In tennis," he explained, "you have certain definite strokes and you turn your racquet this way (with gestures) if you want backspin o that way (more gestures) if you want topspin. But in golf there are as many strokes as there are players and a club for every different shot. I guess it's the difference in the two sports which attracts me."

Vines played Oakmont in the spring while in Pittsburgh with his touring tennis troupe and announced right away that he would try to get back for the amateur. He did.

So he washed down the ham sandwich with a gulp of milk and set out for another practice spin.

"They tell me two 80's ought to get into match play. I better get busy or I won't make it."

'Rocks Point For All-Stars

Lineman have been outstanding in the drills the Boston Shamrocks have had thus far in their preparation for the game with the Eastern College All-Stars next Wednesday night, Sept. 14, under floodlights at Fenway Park, according to Coach George Kenneally.

"I'll have more speed up front this year than I have had since I've been coaching the Shamrocks," said Kenneally after this morning's workout. Although we'll have a heavy line most of these fellows can really hustle out in front of a ball carrier and that's what we're going to need if we're going to beat the All-Stars.

"While I haven't scrimmaged these fellows yet, Steve Gilbert of St. Bonaventures, Mike Skulos of Washington & Jefferson, and Shipley Farroh of Iowa look especially good in that line. Gilbert is an end and he can really punt as well. Skulos and Farroh are guards.

"In the backfield I particularly like the looks of Bill Anderson, Barney Lee, whom I have been running at quarterback, is a pretty slick field general, if I'm any judge. We'll have a real ball club by next Wednesday."

Dobie Tells of Ideal Player | Indiana's Eleven Coming Here

By JACK CONWAY

"WHAT ARE your qualifications for the ideal football player?"

I asked Gil Dobie the direct question at a football get-together between the Boston College athletic authorities and the press at the Hotel Kenmore.

MR. BOSTON

The "Thin Man" didn't try to hedge or qualify his answer.

"I like big fellows weighing between 185 and 195 pounds," replied Gil. "I like my players quick, with power and brains.

"College football players must have power. The little fellows are all right on two or three plays, but that about washes them up. The big, power players can keep going on high for 60 minutes."

I mentioned the case of Albie Booth who played so sensationally for Yale.

"He was the exception," said Gil. "At the time of Booth's successes I had a dozen kids at Cornell who were as thin as rails and who didn't weigh 140 pounds. They wanted to become football stars, but I knew the percentage was running against them."

Dobie was still frank when asked his opinion of modern football.

"The game is still a Chinese puzzle," declared Dobie. "Most college football teams keep trying various plays with the hope that a few of them will click.

"Once a game gets under way the coach has not any control of directing plays. Even if the coach were permitted to keep sending in players with instructions as to what plays to call he couldn't do so successfully. The situation keeps changing so rapidly in modern football that one has to rely upon the judgment of the players on the field.

"The average college player is still only a boy. He doesn't master the game thoroughly until he is a senior. If we could have the boys for two more years we might do better with modern football."

Rates Indiana as Top Eleven

I ASKED Dobie which game on the Boston College schedule he thought would prove the toughest.

"All of them," replied Gil. "I think Dick Harlow at Harvard would give you the same answer if you questioned him about his schedule.

"When we play Northeastern, for example, we are expected to win by three to five touchdowns, and as a result the burden is all on us. Northeastern is only expected to make a good showing, and if it should tie us or win it is on top of the world. Such games often cause me more concern than a major clash with Holy Cross."

I mentioned that Indiana was coming to Boston for a game with Boston College this year.

"I thought Indiana had the second best football team in the country last year," volunteered Dobie. "Pittsburgh, in my opinion, had the best eleven.

"Indiana has many of its veteran players back this year, and should show Boston something new in the football line."

I asked Dobie what he thought about the chances of the Eagles.

"We have some first-class material on our squad, and I believe we shall click," replied Gil.

"There are no prima donnas on our squad this year," said John Curley. "They are a hard-working group of boys. Some of them commute each day from towns as far as Gloucester and Worcester, but they possess the real spirit and will make good.

"Colleges that have training tables have the advantage of keeping the players together, and also avoiding the long trips to and from college each day. Some of our players don't get home until 10 and 11 o'clock at night."

Dobie on New Football Methods

DOBIE STATED that no special inducements are offered to athletes to get them to enter Boston College.

"If we went after football players like some of the Southern colleges do, we could have one of the best elevens in the country," said Gil. "Many players will not enter a college unless it pays their transportation to and from college, and gives them a scholarship.

"Boston College, like Harvard, has never resorted to such methods to get ahead in football. I suppose that if Harvard wished to adopt the tactics of some of the other colleges it could have the greatest college football team ever assembled, as it has the most resources."

John Curley admitted that every college wishing to maintain its high standing had to fight against commercial inroads.

"Many of the parents of first-class athletes go shopping around to the various colleges before permitting their boys to enroll as a student," said Curley. "They have their sons enter the college that offers the best inducements.

"This is bad practice for any college, but, unfortunately, some colleges overlook ethics in their desire to get a winning football club."

Curley and the Rev. Fr. Patrick Collins, new head of the athletic department at Boston College, expressed their fullest confidence in Dobie, and both believe the "Thin Man" will have a strong team on the field.

"Dobie was obliged to do certain things to get his system working properly," said Fr. Collins, "but now that he has done so I am confident he will get results."

Home Run Mark Safe From Hank

Coach Curtis Parker is beating the heat down in Shreveport by having his Centenary football squad report for practice at 6 a. m. . . . Al Schacht says: "I wish I had Lou Gehrig's money, Mod Berg's gall and my good times."

Suppose you read where Bill Terry did a right-about-face and put the Giants back in the flag race . . . Haw . . . Bill McKechnie usually addresses umpires with the prefix of mister, but he must have said "Mr. So and So" the other day when he drew that $150 fine.

Looks like Hank Greenberg can kiss his chances of catching up with Babe Ruth's home run record good-bye. The year he swatted 60 for a new record, the Bam got six of them during the first seven days of September. Hank's record so far this month is zero.

Jimmy Crowley and Rex Enright, who used to be roomies at Notre Dame, will send their Fordham and South Carolina football teams against each other at the Polo Grounds November 19 . . . West Virginia has a five-year football plan which is supposed to wind up in the Rose Bowl in 1940.

Sammy Baugh's contract with the Washington Redskins calls for $1 per year. He is paid his record salary on a side agreement with the club owners . . . Somebody ought to make a pass at Vince Barton of the Hickory (N. C.) team of the Carolina League who hit five homers in six times up against Annapolis the other day. Is that a record? The New York Americans of the National Hockey League will train in Regina, Canada, this fall if an artificial ice plant can be installed in the practice hall in time.

Two Negro ball teams played a 14 inning 2-2 tie at Concord (N. C.) the other night and announced at midnight that the game had to be called on account of expenses . . . One New York newspaper hints Bobby Riggs already has lined himself up a fat job with a Chicago sporting goods firm . . . Here's an old familiar line: "Grimes sees Dodgers set for next year" . . . Ned Irish, the demon press agent, estimates 250,000 addicts have watched the eight pro all-star football games this fall . . . They've got Mickey Cochrane managing the 1939 Dodgers again, but forget it. It's Boston for Black Mike.
